

ANTONIO

BANDERAS

Antonio Banderas was very young when he decided to become an important actor.

He started acting in theatre plays in Malaga. When he was 19, he moved to Madrid where he began in the cinema thanks to Pedro Almodóvar, because of the movie "Killer", he won two Goyas.

In 1988, they made a film together that reached to other countries like the United States, where they were nominated for an Oscar. At that time, Antonio made more movies with other Spanish directors. Gradually, he was getting the fame he deserved, both nationally and internationally.

Nowadays, Antonio Banderas is one of the most important Spanish actors in Hollywood. He has made a lot of very successful films around the world.

Beyoncé

First of all, Beyoncé was a very young artist.

When she was 9 years old, she had her first musical group with some of her friends. However, it wasn't successful but her father, an instrumental seller, knew about the talent of his daughter, so he decided to be her manager.

He created the group "Destiny's Child" with Beyoncé and her cousins.

This group acted in some shows and began to be successful. Then, some problems came and finally, the group was only composed by three.

In 2003, Beyoncé published her first solo disco whose name was "Dangerously in Love", where she was the singer, the producer and the songwriter. This album was number one. It was sold all over the world, and it's also got five Grammys in 2004. Simultaneously, Beyoncé began to play in films and she also worked as a model in a L'Oréal's commercial.

Her dream is to have an Oscar and a Tony. I'm sure that soon, she will have it.
